

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention discloses a method of placing order for a product with specific composition via online shopping, comprising a logon procedure that requires a buyer to enter a website by logging on the Internet; an order placement
5 procedure that lets the buyer open a web page and click the desired purchase item as well as each material of the production with specific composition and their prices, and the buyer can specify the type and proportion of the specific composition, and then the web page calculates the price and lets the buyer confirm the price; a package confirmation procedure that opens a packaging web
10 page and displays different kinds of packaging methods, styles, and prices, and after the buyer has specified the requirements, the web page shows the price of the whole package; and a billing procedure that allows the buyer to confirm the purchase quantity and payment term to complete the order.